KELLY & WALSH, LD.
HAVE BEEN APPOINTED AGENTS FOR THE SALE OF THE NEW AMERICAN COOKERY BOOK.

THE TABLE:
HOW TO BUY FOOD, HOW TO COOK IT, AND HOW TO SERVE IT.
BY ALESSANDRO FILIPPINI, OF DELMONICO'S.
For Twenty-Six Years Mr. Filippini has been with Delmonico, and is now Manager of the branch house at 341 Broadway.

365 BREAKFASTS. 134 Recipes for Soups; nearly 100 Sauces; 102 Ways of Cooking Eggs; 40 Salads;
over 300 Desserts, etc., etc.

THIS work is endorsed by the Delmonicos. Mr. Filippini's experience in Culinary Art is probably greater than any living man's. He has prepared Manus for many of the Grand Diners given by the crowned heads of Europe. The results of a life-time of careful study are here embodied.

(It is infinitely greater than a mere cook-book; for while it gives many more recipes than other works of the kind ever published, at the same time it contains invaluable advice as to how to buy what is best and most economical, and how to dress a table and serve meals.)

PRICE $4, OR IN EXTRA BINDING $6.50.

YOKOH

For a man of "no occupation" it would seem that Wong Hoi Chiu, who displayed his good points before Mr. Wise, at the Police Court on the 19th inst., is far from a failure. The charge against the "accused" was that of obtaining $100 by means of a trick—and a very hoary, moss-grown trick at that. "Li Sul, the defrauded," Mr. E. D. Sassoon Jan. 11, November 1889, and had to do the family market—ing. One morning, he was going to a fortune-teller in the street distributing large auguries at ridiculously low rates, and as he intended to put a trifling one of 30 baits in the Weisung Lottery, he decided to consult the wizard as to which was the favorite. "There must have been something about Li that indicated veracity, for the fortune-teller invited him to drop in on the resident djin next morning, and he did. "After doing some worshipping," he told Mr. Wise, "I put my tail to a jin," he heard a sound. "I took the fortune-teller a dollar to make an image, which I was to take home and worship for ten days"—(Lots of people chin-chin the same way, divinely all their lives, by the way—but to resume). "About a fortnight later the fortune-teller took me to the house of the defendant, who, he said, was a cleverest magician, and could help me better." Defendant said it would take a lot of money. "I gave him $50, as he said he had to pay twelve sauls to hold all the gold." "This reads like a real Hongkong prospectus—" He told me to put six taels of gold, and some of silver, in a bag, and to take it to the defendant, and then, and then the fakier would bring the gold." A second Becker. "I said I did not want to do it, and he suggested that I should sell a few of my children and get some. About a month later I sent a servant in our hong, gave me $100 to change day, and thinking I should get it all back next day, I took it to the defendant. He put it into a tin, and put some rice in another tin, and gave them to me with a letter, and I went back to the house." He told me to look the tin up next day, and I opened them, the twelve sauls would be full of money and the rice tin would be full of tin, but it only contained rice. I opened one tin, which said that I was not to be afraid of (We are prospecting fresh ground, and hope, etc. etc.—Mining Manager), but to say I had lost the money at gambling. I should see him in Court, I went to the house again, but the defendant had gone." With the aid of Inspector Quincey, however, the promised pluton tin was brought about, varied slightly from the original programme, and the matter now stands as follows:—
"Before Mr. E. D. Sassoon, Jan. 11, November 1889, Mr. E. D. Sassoon, Jan. 11, November 1889, the prophetic genie who was the defendant, Mr. Sassoon's boy, was brought up on remand. The evidence of Mr. Sassoon's Butler, as to the $100 being given to the prosecutor to change, was taken, and presently was asked what he had to say about it. He protested that the whole of it was quite new to him, and he had never seen the
